

DR. JOANN CARDILLO

Dr. JoAnn Cardillo is a retired superintendent and educator for 40 years. She began her career in the Paterson Public School District as a teacher and moved into administration to serve as a director, vice principal, principal and executive director coach of principals. Dr Cardillo left Paterson to take the helm at Passaic Valley Regional High School in Little Falls NJ.

Throughout her career Dr. Cardillo has been affiliated with Storytelling Arts both as a teacher and as an administrator. Dr. Cardillo has written of Storytelling Arts' educational programs, "The value of applying storytelling techniques in the classroom has shown consistent positive results in student and teacher outcomes. Everyone understands concepts presented through Storytelling".

In retirement Dr. Cardillo has created JDC Educational Consulting LLC. The venture allows her to use her vast experiences to support school districts, charter schools, and various nonprofit organizations in their quest to develop programs and educate students according to their unique mission and specific strategic goals.